ABIE KHATCHADOURIAN JOINS EUA AS HIGHER EDUCATION MARKET LEADER

MILWAUKEE — Apraham (Abie) A. Khatchadourian has joined Milwaukee based, Eppstein Uhen Architects, Inc. (EUA), as the Higher Education Market Leader

Abie comes to EUA with an extensive background in education and corporate based architecture, having worked on projects across the state of Wisconsin, as well as, in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and several other states. Abie is passionate about his profession and the education industry, which has lead to him researching, publishing and presenting on related topics, providing his expertise to clients and fellow industry leaders. EUA recognizing Abie's strategic vision, problem solving skills, relationship building talent and fellow employee development, brought him on as an addition to their Public Studio, which specializes in serving the K-12 school districts, private and public higher education and other public market sectors.

Abie graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, School of Architecture and Urban Planning, with a Bachelor of Science in Architectural Studies in May of 1975 and went on to receive his Master of Architecture in August of 1977. Abie's professional resume and project experience is extensive. Several of his most notable projects include working with Gateway Technical College-Burlington Campus, on the Burlington Center and new Health and Emergency Response Occupation Heroes Center; two new Intermediate Schools for Oconomowoc Area School District; and additions and renovations to Brookfield Central and Brookfield East High Schools for the Elmbrook School District.

Prior to joining EUA, Abie worked most recently for Plunkett Raysich Architects, LLP (PRA), of Milwaukee since 1998, becoming a Partner and Vice President in 2005. In addition to his time at PRA, Abie has worked at Redmond Design, Inc. as Vice President and Firststar Development Corporation as Vice President and Corporate Architect.

Eppstein Uhen Architects is a 104-year-old, full-service design firm best known for pairing inspired design with exceptional client service.
